

LUCY THE GIANT

In my book Lucy is a depressed teen; her life is just messed up. Lucy's father is a drunk, as a teen Lucy should be going to the mall with her friends and having drama with boys, but no she is stuck at Murphy's bar waiting for her dad to pass out from consuming too much alcohol.

Lucy is very tall, so tall she is bullied, (another reason she is depressed) all the girls at school say "Wait is that a wall, no it's Lucy the giant!"

Lucy is very independent, she wakes up in the morning and uses the community showers in town, every day she goes to McDonalds and eats breakfast, because her dad is passed out on the couch with a hangover (that's when Lucy likes him the most).

Lucy was so fed up with all the bulling and having a drunken dad, so she packs up and gets out of her small town.

Lucy got a job on a fishing boat, she was only thirteen, but as tall as she was everyone thought she was older.

The Brown border represents the color of Beer that Lucy's Dad consumes.

The whale represents her being bullied; Lucy says "Being bullied is like a whale in a small lake, you can never get out".

The rapid waves represent her life, and show that she never knows what comes next.

Last but not least the doll, that's Lucy, riding a whale, she is so independent she could do anything she wants, even ride a whale in a small lake. The outfit is for the job of a Fisher-women\girl.
